Join us for an exciting day of learning with Dr. Lisa Dieker from the University of Central Florida. Dr. Lisa Dieker, Associate Professor and Lockheed Martin Eminent Scholar at the University of Central Florida. Among other areas of influence, Dr. Dieker coordinates the doctoral program in special education reflecting her interdisciplinary work across mathematics, science and special education. She is the author of a number of books including “Demystifying Secondary Inclusion: Powerful School-wide and Classroom Strategies”.

Day 1 - Monday, July 16

This engaging training will provide practical strategies for co-teaching teams to develop a collaborative culture, staffing, and data collection of co-teaching outcomes.

This session will include:

- Useful strategies to successfully support students with disabilities in general education classrooms
- Practical techniques for establishing partnerships between general and special educators
- User friendly resource materials for immediate use in your school related to student learning and assessment
- Real world, relevant and practical ideas, and videotaped examples of inclusive and co-taught settings, including tools for collaboration, assessment and universal design principals

Specific tools across the content will be discussed as well the role of the special educator not only using these tools but teaching students to self advocate for their technological needs for success.

Day 2 –Tuesday, July 17 (GRREC consultants will help you prepare for next school year.)

Come back with your co-teaching team and participate in facilitated planning for the upcoming school year. Learn about assistive technology that will help give all students' access to KCAS.
